London!

As my Camino trip to Portugal was part of another book, I have just picked a couple of my favourite pictures from the trip.

The next four pages are of the few days Joy and I spent in Porto afterwards.

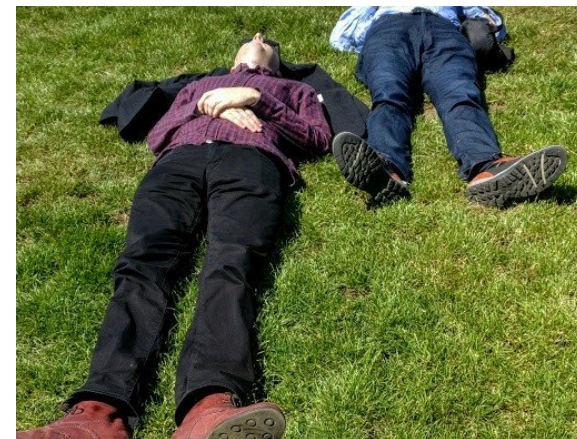

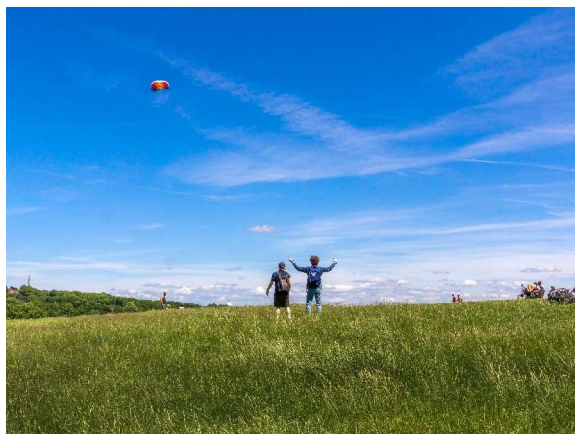

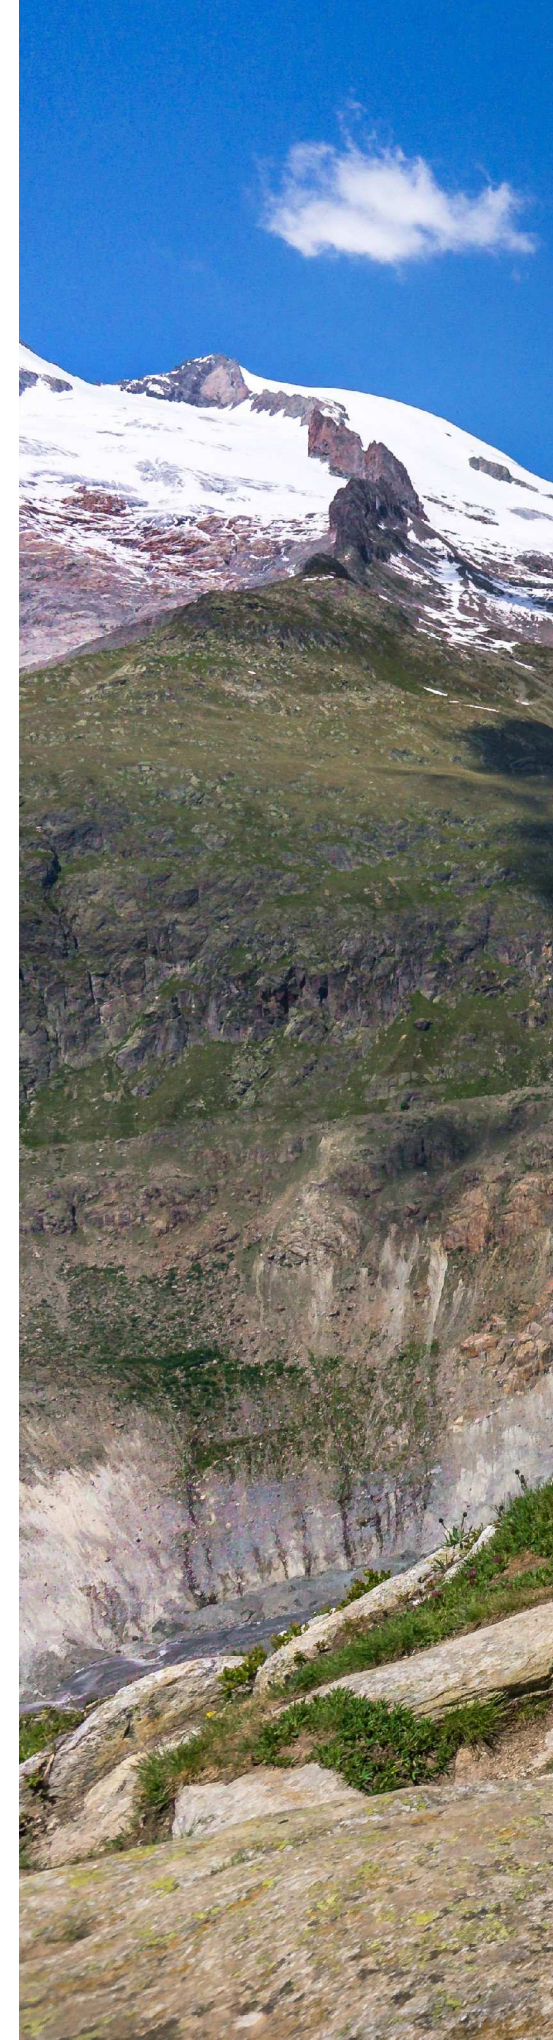

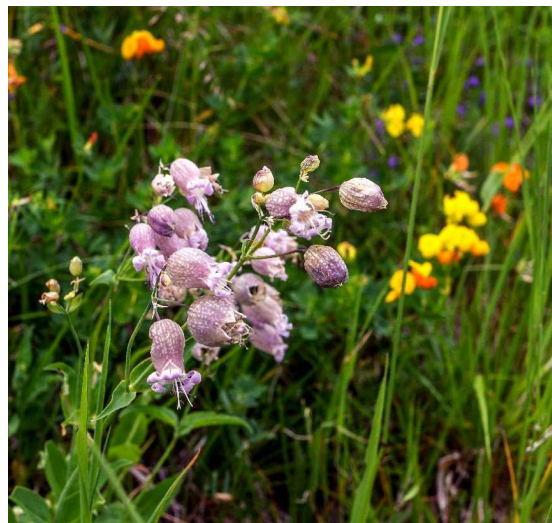

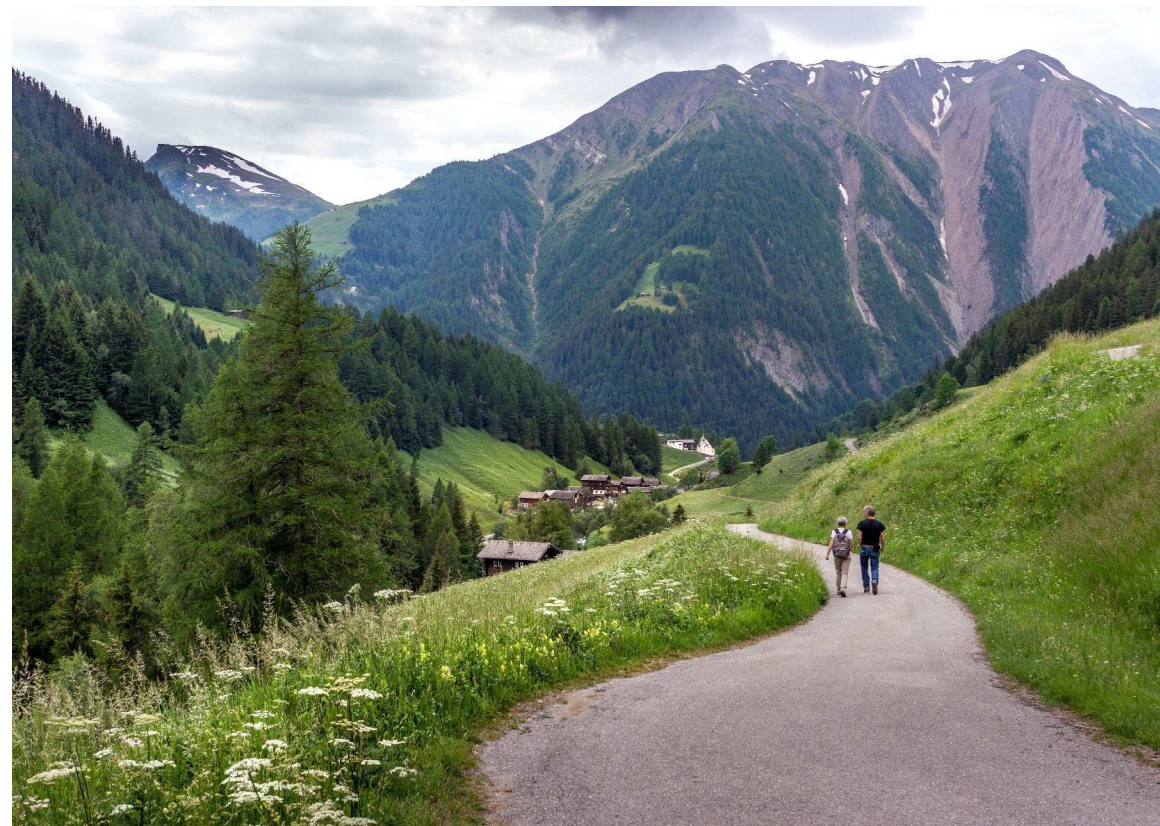

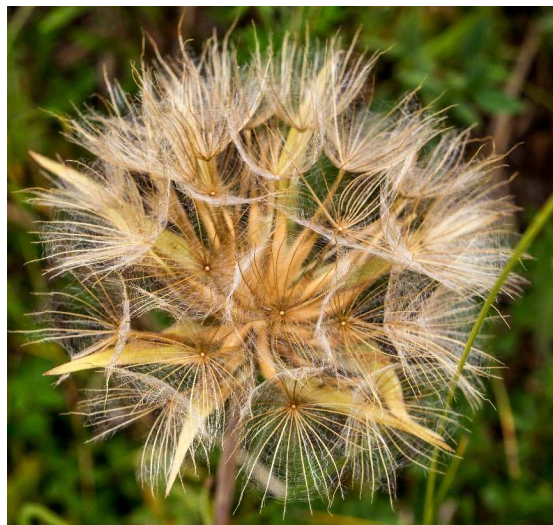

This was a warm day in June, walking with our friends Linda and Richard by the source of the river Whitewater. On the left Richard and Oscar walk by Poplar tress Richard planted fourty years ago.

The great sadness is that Richard died a few months later... a lovely gentle man.

The whole family celebrate Joys birthday in Hampstead, London

This and the next ten pages.... A great trip to Fiesch in Switzerland, followed by Lake Maggiore in Italy.

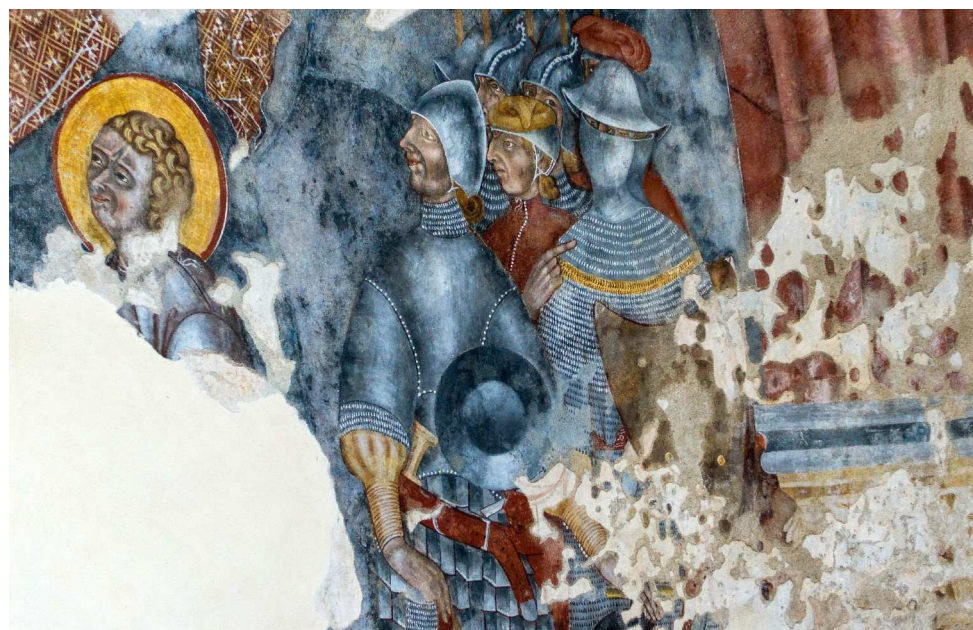

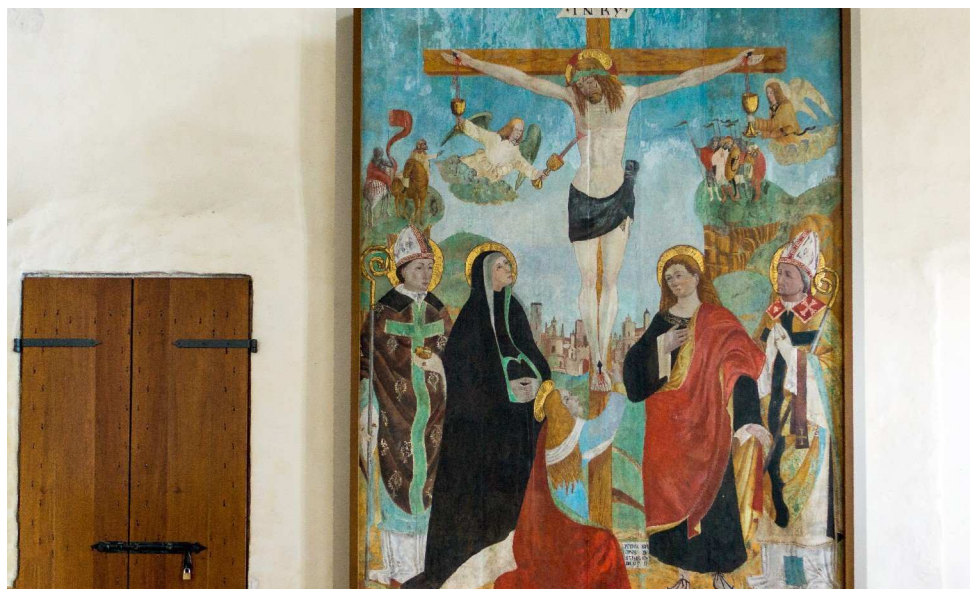

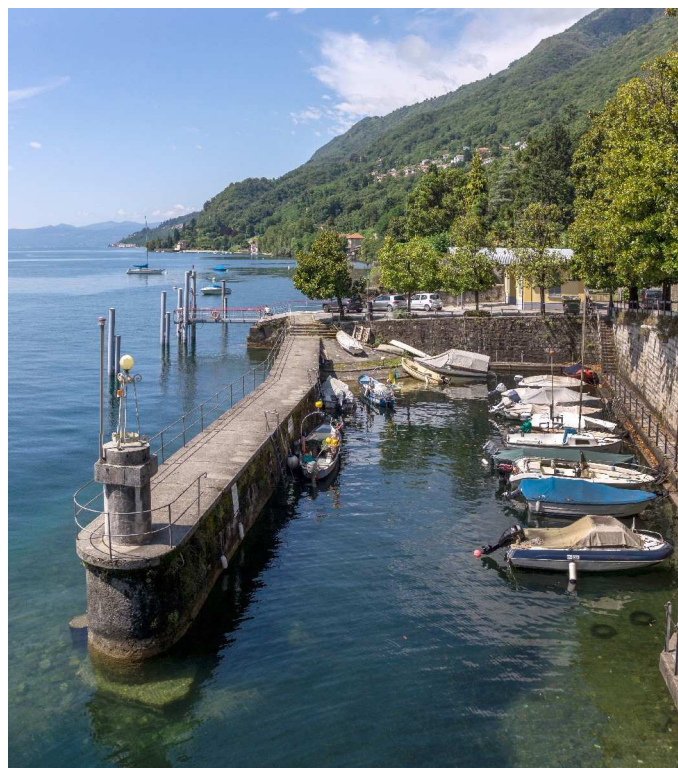

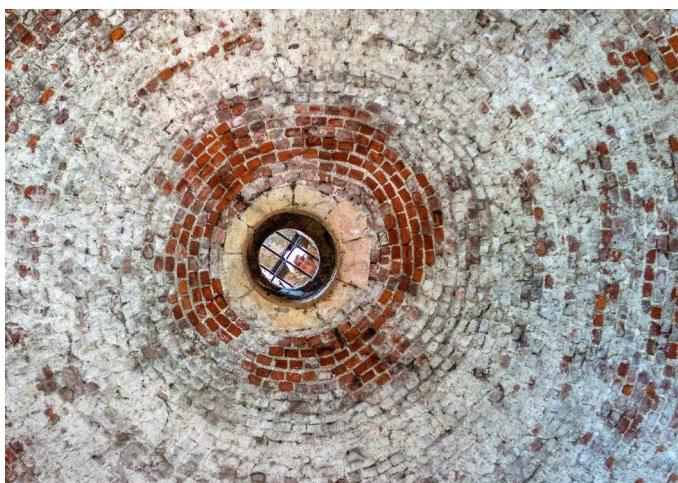

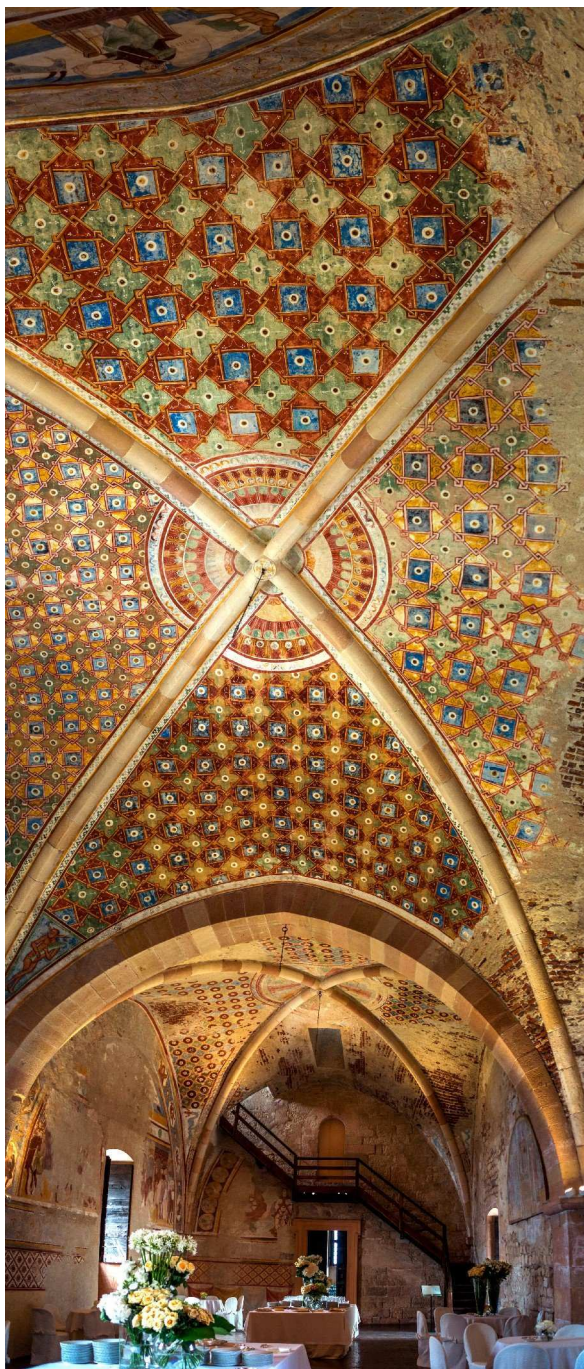

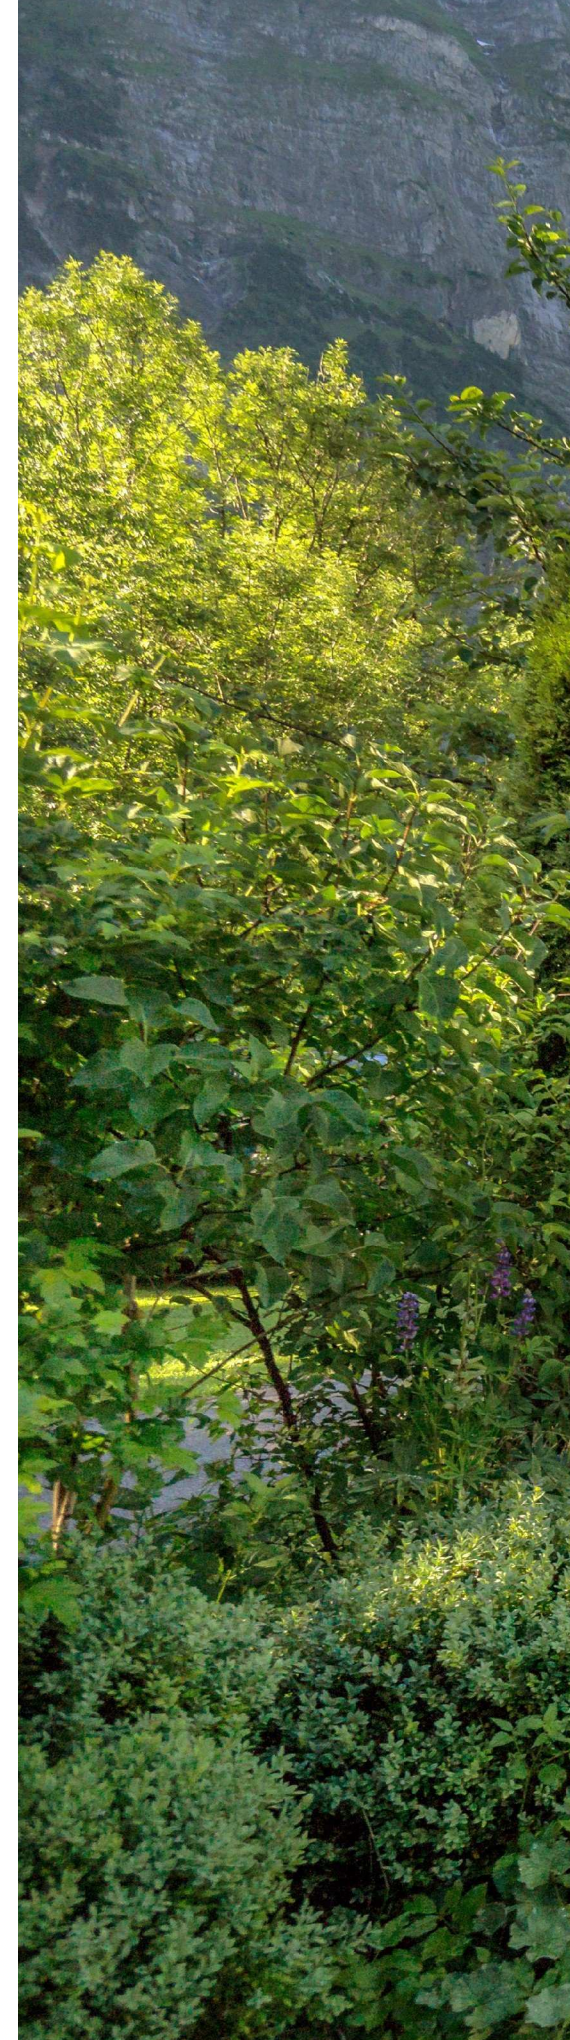

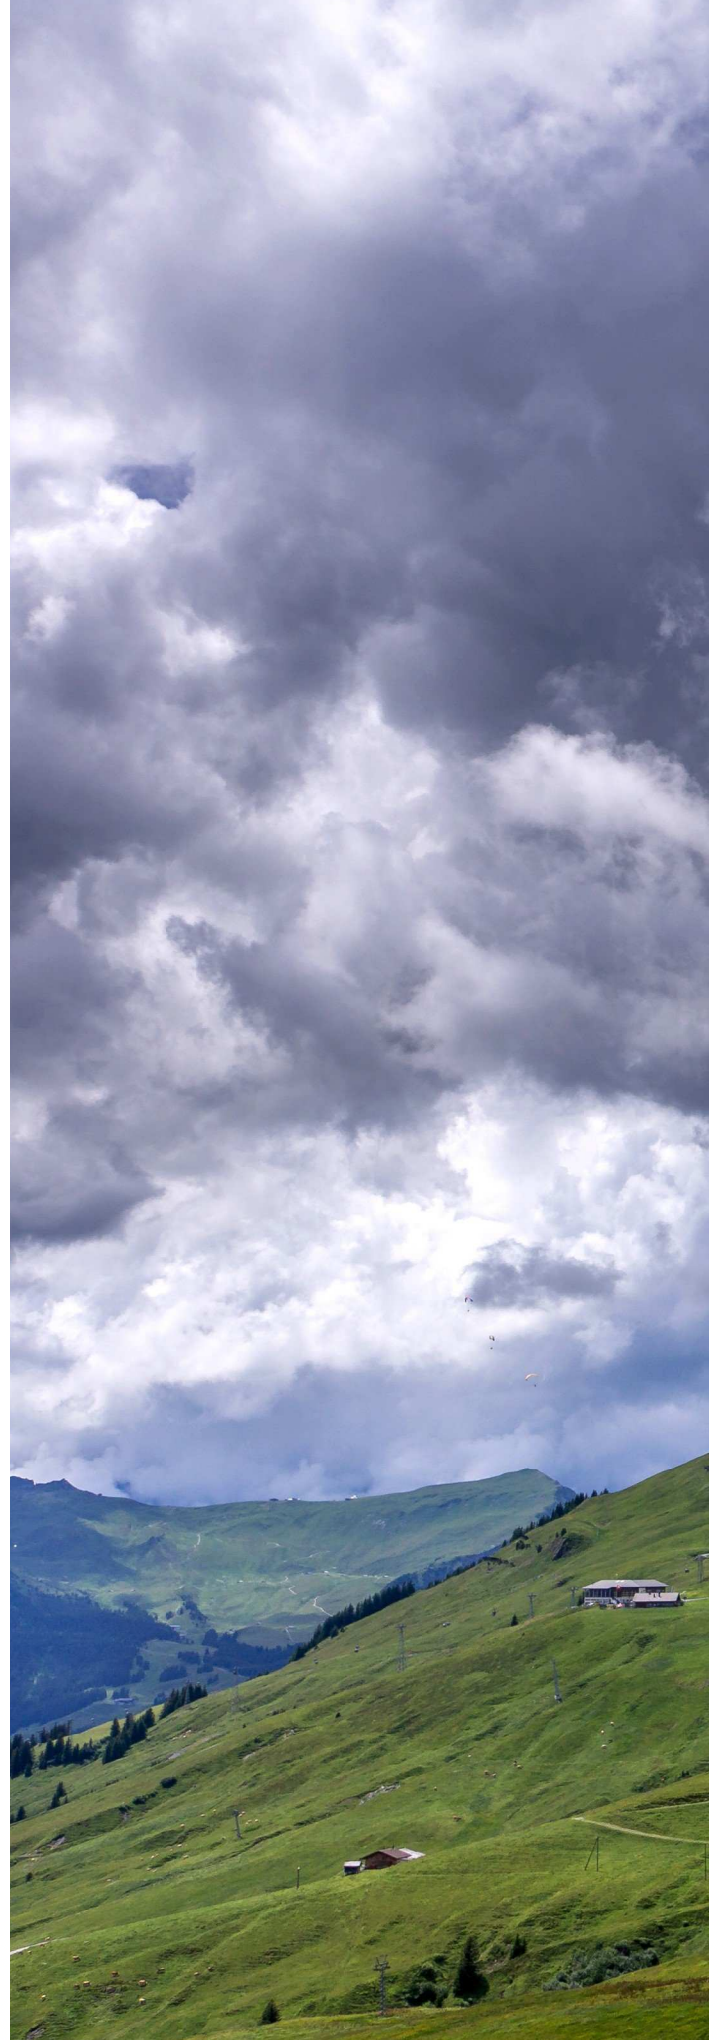

The trip was completed with nine days at Grindelwald, with reasonably good weather. We are now mountain and laked 'out' for a few years.

This page: We have a late celebration of Mary's birthday in Portsmouth.

Third page: We return to the Naval Dockyard again in Portsmouth.

This and the next two pages.... a winter trip to Venice... cold but empty.

A winter walk near Odiham followed by a family Christmas and the year is over.
